Bane of peasants and serfs throughout the lands. More feared than the wolf pack or the bear. The cabbage is the ultimate expression of carnivorous plant life.

Found lurking in temperate fields and meadows, the cabbage appears identical to any other leafy green treat. However, when this psychotic salad leaf strikes, it propels itself from the dirt on eight woody leg-like roots and attacks with snapping, woody pincers.

Being indistinguishable from normal crops, their ability to remain silent and still for extended periods gives the cabbage a chance to surprise its victims on a roll of 1-4 on a d6.
